Mumbai crime branch busts major casting couch, 8 models rescued from Juhu hotel

Mumbai The crime branch of Mumbai Police busted a casting couch racket Mumbai with the arrest of three persons, including a casting director, while eight models were rescued from a posh hotel, a crime branch official said on Wednesday. Mumbai Police said a car, Rs 5.59 lakh cash and 15 mobile phones were recovered from the possession of the accused. Acting on specific information, the police's Crime Intelligence Unit (CIU) conducted a raid on the hotel located near the Juhu beach in western suburbs on Tuesday, an official said. Sources said information was received that one Prem, a casting director and film producer, pushes aspiring models/actors into prostitution racket.

Accordingly, a trap was laid. The official said police personnel contacted a given contact number by posing as a customer and deposited Rs 2 lakh in the (bank) account number provided by Prem. "As pre-decided, the woman was to come to the hotel in Juhu on Tuesday. A trap was laid by the crime branch team with officials of Social Service branch of police who raided the room and nabbed Prem and two women," he said.

While three were held, eight were rescued by the Mumbai Police. The three accused were arrested under relevant provisions of Prevention of Immoral Traffic Act (PITA) along with Sections 120B, 370, 34 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC). Prem's interrogation revealed that at least ten women, including eight models, are part of the prostitution ring, he said.

"Clients used to contact the members of the racket through various websites," an official said. The rescued women, who had worked in various advertisements, movies and in some web series, told police that Prem pushed them into flesh trade by promising them roles in movies and by offering break as models, he said.

Anti-cow slaughter ordinance constitutionally valid, says Karnataka High Court

Bengaluru In a boost to the BJP government in Karnataka, the high court has observed that the provision in the ordinance related to cow slaughter ban is constitutionally valid.

Advocate General Prabhuling Navadgi appeared for the state before the High Court on Wednesday after a batch of petitions were filed by Mohammed Arif Jameel and others.

The Karnataka government contended before the court that the ordinance was in consonance with the Directive Principles of State Policy in the constitution.

Karnataka further contended by filing a preliminary statement of objections that the cattle population over the past eight years has substantially reduced from 95,16,484 in 2012 census (19th livestock census) to 84,69,004 in 2019 (20th livestock census), and that as per the 2019 census, 2,38,296 cattle are being slaughtered every year roughly a daily average of 652.

Under the Information Network for Animal Productivity and Health (INAPH) Scheme of the Central government, ear tagging of cattle is being undertaken using Radio Frequency Identification Device (RFID) conforming to Bureau of India Standards, and out of total cattle population of 1,15,53,564, about 96,00,000 cattle are ear-tagged and the work is in progress. Karnataka also submitted that there are 4,212 veterinary institutions across the state. After hearing the Advocate General, the court observed that the issue relating to the ban on cow slaughter has been affirmed by the Supreme Court in the Mirzapur case as being constitutionally valid.

Maharashtra: Farm ponds increase water availability in drought-prone Marthawada

Marathwada gets only 600 mm to 700 mm of annual rainfall which is the lowest compared to other parts of the state.

Mumbai Marathwada, a drought-prone area is also talked about for the high number of farmer suicides in the state. Year after Year this region is facing the same acute water shortage problem. During summers, the water problem goes from bad to worst. On any given day, villages in this region need around 1 lakh liters of water. Marathwada gets only 600 mm to 700 mm of annual rainfall which is the lowest compared to other parts of the state.

Due to less rainfall and no consistent supply of natural water, the groundwater level has depleted to 300 feet below the ground. But in spite of all odds, there is one village in this region that has brought a ray of hope for the farmers of the Marathwada region. Kumbhphal has 61 small water harvesting structures known as farm ponds. This type of water harvesting has changed fortunes for farmers of this village. Farm ponds have increased water availability. They have brought in positive change and proved to be one of the ways out to overcome the agrarian crisis. Kumbhphal village has a population of 3,000 as per the last Sensus. This village is situated in Beed District's Ambajogai tehsil. For the last 2 years, villagers over here have been building farm ponds all around this village. This village has a cultivation area of around 1,000 hectares. Farm Ponds have made Kumbhphal to stand out from other villages in the Beed district. Once a parched land, now Khumbhphal has lush green cultivated fields all around. This was possible mainly due to Farm Ponds.

Villagers of Kumbhphal talking to India Today remembered the horrific old days when their village like other villages of Marathwada faced severe water shortage problems. Men and Women had to walk miles to fetch drinking water. Irrigating crops was also very difficult.

With the introduction of the farm pond scheme by the Fadnavis Govt in 2016, villagers of Kumbhphal opted for the farm ponds in large numbers. Ganesh Bhosale, 31, son of the present Sarpanch of this village proudly stated that the farm ponds provide irrigation for most of the year. Bhosale also explained the water and soil conservation work by Bollywood Super Star Amir Khan's Pani Foundation. The water and soil conservation teamwork was launched at their village

Kumbhphal.

The State Govt in 2016 introduced a farm pond scheme. Under this scheme, Kumbhphal villagers got 61 farm ponds constructed in group construction order for which the state Govt provided a subsidy of Rs 50,000 to middle size farm pond and Rs 75,000 for a large size farm pond. Thus, each of the owner's farm pond got it without spending a penny.

A farmer of Kumbhphal named Govind Jadhav has been felicitated at the hands of Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Tomar for increasing his farm produce manifold. Govind Jadhav talking to India Today TV said the increase in farm yield was possible because of the availability of adequate water because of farm ponds and soil-water conservation work by different agencies.

Farm ponds also raised the hopes of those who had migrated to bigger cities to return to their village. Jyotiram Shivaji Lugade is one such farmer. After Jyotiram came to know about water availability, he decided to return to his native village and tried his hands-on farming. With sufficient water available for irrigation Jyotiram soon got good farm yield and has started earning around Rs 5 lakh annually. Jyotiram sells his farm produce in the nearby wholesale markets at district headquarters like Nanded, Beed, Latur. Today Jyotiram cultivates four to five types of crops on his 10-acre farm. He even sends fruits grown on his farm to far off cities like Pune. Farmers of other districts in Marathwada have now started visiting Kumbhphal to study their method of farming and water conservation.
